"The Official Watch for Timing This Game is Longines. The World's Most Honored Watch"

U. T. PRESIDENT C. E. BREHM'S MESSAGE

The University is proud of its "Vols" and its coaching staff and their distinguished record of achievement in football and sports history over many years. They have contributed in large measure to the prestige of the University of Tennessee and its standing as a great Tennessee Institution. Win or lose, they live up to the traditions of the University and the Volunteer State in good sportsmanship.

The University appreciates the fine support Tennesseans have given to their State Institution of Higher Education and its Athletic Association. It is this which makes possible this sports event today.

Naturally we hope the Vols win this and every other game in the 1950 football schedule. Be that as it may, we are sure that the Vols will give a good account of themselves, and we know that those here today will witness a thrilling football game.

The University of Tennessee is honored to have people from Tennessee and other States visit its Campus to see the activities of students and faculty on "The Hill." We are particularly glad to welcome the enthusiasts of football and the coaches and players of other Universities and Colleges. We hope that you get the greatest enjoyment from this game and that you see all the Vol games on Shields-Watkins Field in 1950.

EDNA CALLAWAY
U-T ATHLETIC ASSO. BUS. MGR.

Mrs. Edna Callaway, Tennessee's "Jack-of-all-trades," is in her 15th year as business manager of the Vol Athletic Association.

Back in 1935, Mrs. Callaway first became associated with Tennessee Athletics, and since then she has developed one of the most efficient athletic organizations in the South. At first, Mrs. Callaway handled everything in the business department alone, but now she has a regular staff of eight assistants and several part-time workers in the fall.

Tucker Musser, Athletic Publicity Director, joined the Vol staff in 1947. After serving one year as an assistant, he was appointed head Publicity Director in December, 1947.

Musser, a native of Abingdon, Va., studied Journalism at the University of Tennessee. His duties as publicity director include writing and assembling all athletic news, editing the Football Brochure and Program, supervision of publicity photos and compilation of statistics as well as many administrative duties.

ROBERT R. NEYLAND Athletic Director and Head Football Coach

General Robert R. Neyland, Athletic Director and Head Football Coach at Tennessee, is celebrating his Silver Anniversary as Vol grid chief. Neyland, Dean of Southeastern Conference coaches, came to Tennessee twenty-five years ago as Head Football Coach. Beginning in 1926 he served as top pilot at the Volunteer institution through 1940 with the exception of one year, 1935, when he was sent to Panama for a tour of duty with the Army Corps of Engineers. After undefeated '38, '39, and '40 seasons, Neyland left Tennessee for five years Army duty; he returned to Tennessee in 1946 to resume his coaching duties.

Neyland was born in Greenville, Texas, February 17, 1892, where he attended high school. He was captain of three of his high school athletic teams, football, basketball, and baseball.

After spending one year at Burleson College and one year at Texas A & M, Neyland was appointed to West Point in 1912. He was an out-standing athlete at the "Point" for three years. He won his letter in football as regular end in 1914 and 1915, but Neyland's most notable athletic accomplishments were in baseball and boxing. His record at the academy as a baseball pitcher is still unequalled. He pitched and won 35 games, lost 5, and went 20 straight games before being defeated by Fordham. In 1914-15-16 he held the heavyweight boxing championship of the institution. General Neyland and Colonel Bill Britton, who for many years assisted Neyland at Tennessee, share the Army Athletic Award which is a gold saber given to the "Best Athlete in the Senior Class." This was the first and only time that two sabers were awarded in any one class at West Point.

Neyland was graduated from West Point and made a Second Lieutenant in the United States Army June 4, 1916. In 1917 he went to France where he served as Captain and temporary Major at various stations in the French proper during World War I. Upon returning to the U. S. in 1918, Neyland entered M. I. T. where he later received his B. S. Degree in Civil Engineering. In 1921 he returned to West Point as aide-de-camp to the Commanding General, Douglas MacArthur. He was assistant baseball coach at West Point from 1921 to 1924, and assisted in coaching the football team.

In 1925 Neyland came to Tennessee as instructor in R.O.T.C. and also became assistant football coach. The following year he was elevated to the head job.

When Neyland became head coach a new era in Tennessee football history began. In his 18 years as coach of the Vols, Neyland has built a record that is probably unequalled in football coaching circles. His record is 143 wins, 23 losses, and 11 ties. Neyland was the first coach in the country to have teams invited to three major "Bowls" in three

Ed Morgan, sophomore from Hendersonville, Fla. Another fine prospect who needs only experience to be a top-notch performer. One of the fastest men on the squad, he is being groomed for defensive duty, is expected to play plenty this year. Very good pass receiver, but looks better running the reverse. Definitely a future star.

Dave Markloff, junior from Philadelphia, Pa. A returning letterman at this position. Has potentialities of becoming a great back. Gained needed experience last season. Strong and very fast, he is both powerful and shifty. An outstanding prospect, he may be the "surprise package" of the year.

W. C. Cooper, senior from Knoxville, Tennessee. A two-year letterman who is one of the most dependable players on the squad. He is an excellent runner, capable passer and punter. Very cool, he is scheduled for much duty. Will also see some action as safety man. Was top defensive tail-back last year. Very steady and consistent, he is vastly underrated.

Bert Rechichar, junior from Belle Vernon, Pa. This outstanding returning regular from last season is surely Tennessee's top wingback since pre-war days. Outstanding in every department, he is a fast and powerful ball-carrier. Best pass receiver on the squad. Best kick-off and extra point man the Vols have had in years.

consecutive years—the Orange Bowl in 1939, the Rose Bowl in 1940, and the Sugar Bowl in 1941. Neyland has coached every All-American that has been selected from Tennessee.

Neyland holds one of the longest consecutive winning streaks in college football history; starting with a 13-0 win over Kentucky on November 25, 1937, his teams won 36 straight regular season games before being upset by Wake Forest in 1946. His teams won three straight at the end of the 1937 season; they were undefeated and untied in 1938, 1939 and 1940; in 1946 Neyland-coached teams won 4 more consecutive games before the Wake Forest loss. While setting this record of 36 consecutive regular season wins, Neyland's teams scored 955 points to their opponents 55.

During World War II, Neyland served five years in the Army. He left Tennessee in May, 1941, and was made District Engineer at Norfolk, Va., where he was in charge of important large-scale construction work. Also he was engineer in charge of harbor improvements at vast Hampton Roads, Va., Port of Embarkation. From Norfolk, Neyland was sent to Dallas as Division Engineer of the Southwestern Division in charge of all military construction in the States of New Mexico, Oklahoma, Louisiana, Texas and Arkansas. Transferred to Kunming, China in early 1944, he was made Commanding General of Advance Section 1, Service of Supply in charge of all supplies to American troops in China. Later Neyland became Command General of Base Section, Service of Supply in charge of all supplies to American forces in the C-B-I Theatre of Operations.

General Neyland wears the Distinguished Service Medal, the Legion of Merit with Oak Leaf Cluster, Order of the British Empire and the Chinese Order of the Cloud and Banner.

In 1942, Neyland was ordered by the War Department to assemble and coach an Army All-Star team to play a schedule with professional teams. This team, after less than a month's training, played and defeated within a 4-day period two of the three most powerful football teams in the nation. Neyland's All-Stars defeated the New York Giants 16-0, the Brooklyn Dodgers 14-7, and on the eighth day lost to the world's champion Chicago Bears 14-7.

Neyland married Miss Ada Fitch of Grand Rapids, Michigan, July 16, 1923. General and Mrs. Neyland have two sons, Robert R. III and Lewis F. Neyland.

Harold Johnson, senior from Jackson, Tennessee, is the cool-as-ice lad who holds that ball with nerveless digits for place kickers. A knee injury in

MILLWORK OF KNOWN QUALITY

Tom Twitty, sophomore from Oak Ridge, Tenn. Was very impressive as a defensive back in spring practice. Hits hard and can cover passes. Considered a fine prospect, may see offensive duties. Good blocker, rugged for his size, he has lots of ability and determination. Lacks experience under fire.

Joe Mature, sophomore from New Kensington, Pa. Another fine sophomore prospect who thrives on rough work. Very rugged and probably the hardest hitting man pound for pound on the squad. Ticketed for heavy duty this year, he is equally capable on offense and defense. Great defensive prospect.

Hank Lauricella, junior from New Orleans, La. Top offensive man last season, this flashy triple-threat may become one of the greatest Tennessee tailbacks of all-time. A flashy, shifty runner, he is a great passer, an above par punter. He is a real team player, very colorful. He is the top backfield candidate for conference and national honors.

Bernie Sizemore, junior from Princeton, W. Va. Shifted to blocking back in major change to strengthen this position. One of the fastest men on the squad, he was regular offensive full-back last season. Low-built, he is a powerful ball-carrier. Once past the line of scrimmage he is capable of outrunning the opponent.

Charles Flora, senior from Danville, Va. A two-year letterman who was regular defensive end last season, this boy is also a top offensive performer. Light for an end, he is very fast and shifty, hard to block. Played his best ball toward end of '49 season. His play in spring drills indicated that he means to keep his starting berth intact.

Jimmy Hill, senior from Maryville, Tenn. Regular defensive halfback last season. Came to Tennessee as a tailback. A speed merchant, this boy is a sure tackler who can cover passes with the best. May also see some offensive action this season. Very capable and a hard worker.

Basil Drake, sophomore from Panama City, Fla. One of the finest prospects to hit the campus in many years. Played tailback as a freshman. Also wingback. He is a swift and powerful runner. Is fine defensive prospect. Very determined he may be the find of the year. Nickname "Duke."

J. W. Sherrill, senior from Norfolk, Va. Set national pass interception record last year with 12. Best defensive back to perform for the Vols in years. A two-year letterman who came to Tennessee as an end. He is also a top offensive performer, but is ticketed to again be the number one defensive back. Watch this man on defense.

Roy Smith, senior from Knoxville. Nicknamed "Looney." One of the most improved players on the squad. Ticketed for regular defensive left tackle. Strong and rough, he is a real "holler" guy. This boy has the determination to finish his playing career in great style. May be surprise of 1950.

Jimmy Haus, junior from Newport News, Va. Was regular offensive quarterback as sophomore last year, starting in all games. He is a rough, rugged "rocker-socket" from way back. A fine interference leader, he is ticketed for stardom. Watch this boy, he may become one of Tennessee's greatest blocking backs.

Charles Meyer, sophomore from Cincinnati, Ohio. A hard-hitting boy with loads of determination. Has the ability to become a top-notch blocking back. Will see plenty of playing time. Short of experience under pressure, but looked like a real comer in the spring drills. His play will be a major factor this year.

Ted Daffer, junior from Norfolk, Va. Top guard of the '49 team. Rated as Tennessee's best all-round guard in years, surely best in the decade. He is equally great on offense and defense. Excellent candidate for All-America honors. He is tops at this position in the South. Watch this boy, he is great.

Jerry Morris, junior from Lenearue, Ky. Injured last year, he may not be completely recovered in time to perform this season. Fine spirit and a hard worker. Active and aggressive, he may be useful.

Jodie Ellis, sophomore from Nashville, Tenn. A transfer who was ineligible last season. Flashed signs of greatness in spring drills. A tricky and elusive runner, he is a fine passer, very accurate. Fast and capable, he can be depended upon.

Roger Vest, sophomore from Detroit, Mich. Certain to see action on defense. Played fine ball as a frosh last year, also looked very capable in the spring drills. Needs experience, but has hustle and ability.

Horace (Bud) Sherrod, senior from Knoxville. This boy is Tennessee's top candidate for All-America. A three-year letterman, had a great '49 season. A real hustler, he plays football for keeps, thrives on rough work. Rated Tennessee's best end in years. Fast and rugged, he is a fine team player. Alternate captain.

George Carter, sophomore from Farmville, Va. Another first year flankman who will see much action. A fine offensive end prospect, good pass receiver and a capable blocker. Being groomed for possible number one offensive end duties this year. An excellent punter, he may share duties with the tailbacks at this task.

Jerry Malach, sophomore from Knoxville. Shifted to guard in spring drills. Very fast, he is scheduled for offensive duties. Very good blocker. He is very dependable and consistent. Lacks experience, but may be the man to fill in as regular in this vacated spot. Lots of hustle, he gives all he has whether in game or practice.

Bill Ford, sophomore from Sweetwater, Tenn. A fine prospect, big and fast, he lacks only experience to become a grade "A" center. Will see most of his action on offense, although he may be used on defense. Was very impressive in spring drills. Was shifted to this spot from tackle. Should prove to be a very valuable man.

Milk is Health

Make your dining table a training table.

Milk, you know, has long been a "must" item on training table menus of leading football teams—because milk gives the gridiron greats the sturdy bones, radiant health, and vital energy they need.

Milk is especially important for the All-Americans of the future who need its body-building, health-promoting vitamins.

And, while you are serving milk to the youngsters, drink some yourself. Milk is nature's best food, high in vitamin content that protects you against colds—a food that is nourishing but not fattening.

SECURITY MILLS, Inc. Knoxville 5,
Tennessee

Gil Kyker, junior from Knoxville, Tenn. Former Young High standout. Last year saw most action in place-kicking role. Improving this spring, he may see duties on offense this season. Extra point kicker and kick-off man. Largest of blocking backs, a good man to have around.

Jim Haslam, sophomore from St. Petersburg, Fla. Another light and rangy tackle. Held out last year because of injuries, this young man is ready for action. Came to Tennessee as an end but was shifted to tackle. Plenty of speed and hard to move. Fine blocking charge, very capable.

Ken Donahue, senior from Knoxville. Regular offensive tackle, much depends on his play. Raw boned and rough. Came into his own last season. Not flashy, but consistent and probably most improved lineman on squad. A hard and sure blocker. A big man in the Vols' offensive operation this season.

Jim Markelonis, sophomore from Niagara Falls, N. Y. One of three Niagara Falls athletes on the squad. Has a short, stocky build, being groomed for defense. Looked very impressive at times during spring drills. Lacks experience, but is a hard worker and should see some duty.

GATLINBURG "In The Smokies" TENNESSEE

Frank Alexander, sophomore from Murphy, N. C. A grade "A" prospect who is ticketed for plenty of duty in his first varsity year. "Alec" is the rough-tough type player with much determination. Looks very promising in spring drills, needs experience, but figures on both offense and defense.

Francis Trubitt, sophomore from Niagara Falls, New York. This boy is ticketed for heavy defensive work this season. Was a standout on both offense and defense as a freshman last season. A hard worker with ability and determination, he has a promising future. Will be counted on to share the load, and will see lots of action.

Vince Kaseta, junior from Brockton, Mass. First-string offensive end as a sophomore last season. He is a sound blocker and capable pass receiver. A real hustler who goes full speed at all times. Gained valuable experience last season and should be a polished flanker this year. Was on receiving end of 5 passes in '49.

Carl Eschenbach, sophomore from Cleveland, Ohio. This hefty lad saw much action on the 1949 freshman squad. Strictly a defensive man, he needs experience. Improved in spring practice, he is ticketed for reserve play this year. Could be helpful. An excellent pitching prospect in baseball.

Joe Hughes, sophomore from Perth Amboy, N. J. One of few veterans on squad. Regular defensive tackle on Freshman team last year. Big and strong, he has the speed and fight to become a top notch tackle. May be very helpful for reserve duty this season. Very determined.

John Michals, sophomore from Philadelphia, Pa. An outstanding prospect, this boy is scheduled to team with Daffer as regular defensive guard. He is big, fast and rough. He was terrific in spring drills. Also played above par as a freshman. One of the most rugged Vols. Has determination, fight and fire. Watch this boy, he may be great.

Gene Felty, senior from Bristol, Tenn. lettered last season. Capable and adequate on both offense and defense. Will see duty in both departments. Came to Tennessee as a tackle, but was shifted to center. Expects to have a good year which would help give the Vols needed strength at this position.

Vernon Lyons, junior from Norfolk, Va. Only letterman returning at this position. Strong and fast, gained experience in major games last season. Set-up for defensive play and should prove very helpful at this spot. A real scrappier.

Francis Stupar, junior from Nunhall, Pa. Alternated as number one offensive end last season. Snagged ten passes for 114 yards. Caught pass to set up touchdown that defeated Kentucky. Excellent pass receiver, capable blocker, very fast. Can play adequately on defense. May be main Vol pass target this season.

Grady Gentry, sophomore from Dyersburg, Tenn. Another sophomore guard who is being polished for defensive duties. A tackle on the freshman team, he was shifted to guard this spring. A hard worker who is developing fast. His determination and ability is sure to help this inexperienced guard slot. Has lots of power and speed.

Jack Stroud, senior from Cleveland, Ohio, 1950 captain. Tennessee's most underrated player in years. A three-year letterman who has been regular right tackle for the past two years. A "rock" on defense, he is the best offensive lineman on the squad, a natural leader. Should win national honors, certainly conference honors. Another man to watch.

William Fulton, sophomore from Detroit. Promising end prospect. Stands out on defense, but is also an excellent pass receiver. Smallest end of the '50 squad, but has plenty of ability and know-how. Broke collar bone in spring practice, completely recovered. Ticketed for duty this season. Needs experience. Should aid wing position.

Charles Stokes, junior from Graceful, Fla. Junior college transfer from Florida. Needs experience, looked promising in spring drills. Will be available for reserve duties.

Bill Jasper, junior from Somerset, Ky. First-string defensive center last year, he is returning to resume these duties. Big, strong and rugged, he is at his best under pressure, like it rough. A hard-sure tackler, excellent at diagnosing plays. One of the most valuable men on the squad and another man to watch.

Dan Laughlin, sophomore from Buffalo, N. Y. Another fine guard prospect. Came to Tennessee as a center, but was shifted to guard. Will see defensive action. Has all the marks of becoming a top guard. Needs experience, but was impressive in spring drills. Big and rough, he is a very capable defensive man.

Earl Campbell, sophomore from Elizabethton. Lightest lineman on the squad, he is also the shortest. Is certain to see plenty of playing time this season. He is rough and fast, and very hard to block. Nickname "Whig." Stands out on defense, a steady reserve to fill in for Dotter. Fine spirit.

Ken Pruett, senior from Knoxville, Tenn. Another good fullback to add strength at this position. Shifted to this position from wingback last year he came through in fine style. He is equally effective on offense and defense and will see action at both this year. Very rugged and is fast for a fullback.

Andy Kozar, sophomore from St. Michael, Pa. A top-notch prospect. A center as a freshman, he did not see action last season due to injuries, but his play in spring drills at fullback served notice that he intends to play a lot of football. A fast and powerful runner, this boy is capable of going all the way. May be regular offensive fullback.

Dick Ernsberger, junior from Mansfield, Ohio. Most improved player on the squad in spring drills. Saw some action last season, but really developed in spring drills. A smooth operating offensive fullback, he is ticketed for heavy action this season. Equally effective on defense, but offense is his trade.

Gene Moeller, sophomore from Davenport, Iowa. A great line-backer prospect who is being counted upon for plenty of action this year. He has displayed good offensive play, but his trade-in-stock is line backing. This is a boy to keep an eye on as he is big enough and rugged enough to take over as top man in this department.

Harold Payne, junior from Pensacola, Fla. Lettered as a sophomore last year. This former All-State player may be the make or break man for the Vols 1950 offense. A hard-crushing runner with a very deceptive change of pace, he may well be the Vols "surprise package" of the '50 season. He has outstanding ball-carrying ability and is a capable passer and punter. Good defensive safety man.

Don Bordinger, junior from Williamsport, Pa. A former Navy veteran. Did not play enough last season to letter, but made fine showing in spring drills. He is a hard worker and may be helpful this year. An offensive guard. Throws discus in track, also puts shot.

Tommy Jumper, sophomore from Chattanooga. Another key sophomore, ticketed to play regular offensive guard. Flashed fine form and ability in spring workouts. Excellent blocker both on the line and down field. Fast and strong. Another soph to keep an eye on.

Douglas Atkins, sophomore from Humboldt, Tenn. Outstanding freshman wingman last season. Rated best Tennessee end prospect in years. This big boy likes his football best when the going is tough. Ranked just behind All-American Sherrard on defense.

Pat Shires, sophomore from Hinton, W. Va. A standout on the 1949 freshman team, he was one of the most sought-after high players in the country. He is a hard running back with loads of power, better than average passer, and an excellent punter. Looked very impressive in spring drills. May become a standout.

Gordon Polotsky, junior from Cranston, R. I. Probably the best all-round fullback in the entire South. He is big, strong, fast and as rugged as they come. What he can do with plenty of room to romp will be proved this season, since he is ticketed to see offensive action as well as defensive. His line backing ability is uncanny. He is a crushing tackler and a fine pass protector.

Andy Myers, sophomore from Knoxville, Tenn. An outstanding tackle on the 1948 freshman team. Big and rough, this boy is a hard worker with the determination to become a top tackle. Looked very impressive in spring drills. Scheduled for defensive duty, will see his share of playing. Much depends on his development this season.

Frank Boring, junior from Alcoa, Tenn. Lettered last year as a sophomore. One of the most powerful men on the squad. This big boy has plenty of speed. One of the most improved players on the squad, he is equally capable on both offense and defense. Keep an eye on this boy as he has possibilities of becoming a fine tackle.

Roger Rotroff, sophomore from Cincinnati, Ohio. Played blocking back as a freshman. Shifted to wingback in spring drills and the move paid dividends. A fine built boy, he is a rugged individual on defense. He will probably see most of his action in this department this year, but he is also a capable man on defense, lacking only experience.

Bob Davis, from Bluefield, W. Va. Lettered as a sophomore in '49. Regular offensive center, looked his best this past spring. Fine ball-passer and blocker. Rangy and fast, he has ideal build for a center. This boy is a real comer. His accurate ball-snapping and steady blocking makes him a key man in the Vol offense.

Francis Holohan, sophomore from Niagara Falls, New York. Gave indication in Spring drill of becoming great tackle. Big, rough and still growing, this boy has a real football future. Defensive play stands out. May be regular defensive tackle. A real find, very aggressive and loaded with ability. Keep an eye on him.

Bill Pearson, junior from Charlotte, N. C. Nickname "Pug." An excellent blocker, he is big, rough and has the ability to become a top tackle. Groomed for offensive duty, but may be used on defense. Has plenty of savvy and his experience will greatly help tackle situation. May be regular offensive tackle.
